GEN. VON FALKENHORST, COMMANDER OF ALL GERMAN FORCES IN NORWAY FROM TIME OF INVASION THERE, IS CAPTURED; TAKEN PRISONER BY THE 42ND DIVISION

Held Rank Equivalent To
That of U. S. Four-
Star General

MAKES STATEMENT

Claims High Command Was Always Aware It Could Not Win the War

By Pierre J. Huss
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
WITH THE U. S. SEVENTH
ARMY, May 11—(INS)—Gen. Nichlas Von Falkenhorst, commander of all German air, land and sea forces in Norway from the time of the German invasion of Norway until the middle of December last year, was captured today.
Von Falkenhorst was taken prisoner by the 42nd (Rainbow) Division of the U. S. Seventh Army.
The rank which Von Falkenhorst held was equivalent to that of United States four-star general, such as Gen. Courtney Hodges, General George S. Patton and Gen.
Mark W. Clark, among others.
In talking to the American divisional commander after his apprehension the aged Junker said:
"You have liberated us from a system of gangsters."
The division commander was Maj.
Gen. Harry J. Collins.
Gen. Von Falkenhorst, as in the case of other apprehended Germans, asserted that the Nazi "gan-sters" had held him and others "in totality these years."
"Now we can think and speak our minds," he declared.
"It is a national disgrace that we were unable to liberate ourselves." Von Falkenhorst was a great strategist but he himself admitted that the German high command always was aware that it could not win the war.
"There is an old German saying," he went on, "that you cannot let a baker sole a shoe, and that is what Hitler tried to do."
"Nazi party members were put in command positions in the army but they knew nothing about warfare," he said.
"They fought the most insane war in all history."
"There was never a chance that military operations would be successful under such a mad leadership."

Another outstanding operation was performed by the 20th Bomber Command which flew from bases in India in January to carry out large-scale mining operations against the entrance to Singapore harbor and adjacent waters.
The 20th Air Force mining operations, Arnold said, have been of two general types—those aimed at the interdiction of enemy shipping in support of the broad strategic objective, and those of a tactical nature which have been conducted in direct connection with surface operations.
Security reasons, he said, have prevented previous disclosure of this type of operation by the Superforts.

Gen. Von Falkenhorst, as in the case of other apprehended Germans, asserted that the Nazi "gan-
sters" had held him and others "in
totality these years."
"Now we can think and speak our minds," he declared.
"It is a national disgrace that we were unable to liberate ourselves."

CIVILIAN PRODUCTION

It is evident already that there will be a considerable margin left over from the production of supplies for the single Pacific conflict for steadily increasing output of civilian goods. The margin would be larger except for one vital difference between supplying the late European war and that against Japan.

When United States troops moved to the British Isles, many of their requirements were already at hand. There were water, transport, power, communications and housing. Some of these facilities had to be expanded, but in no instance was the burden as great as it would have been had the expeditionary force been compelled to start from scratch.

It is different in the Pacific.
Big bases there must be constructed on rock and sand and in the jungles. Highways, water purification systems, power systems, telephones, railroads, housing and other conveniences will have to be provided by American factories, the output of which otherwise could be diverted to civilian goods. Not everything that was usable in Europe will be adaptable to the Pacific. Clothing, for example, will be quite different. There will even be variations in the types of food consumed.

War-making is a highly specialized job, calling for one thing in a certain climate and something else in different latitudes.
But civilian production will gain from now on, month by month, because it would be impossible to apply all the production that was built up for America's two-front war and for lend-lease to the one war in the Pacific.

STILL ONE TO WIN

Some gain should result from publication of the War Department's redeployment plans, although the announcement would have been deferred if the information presented to the House Military Affairs Committee had not leaked out in garbled form.

The war that is still to be won in the Pacific means, as the War Department's announcement shows, that this nation must solve the greatest and most complicated military problem in history before Japan is completely defeated. It will not be solved at the lowest possible cost in human life unless every American assumes his share of it.

There are really two problems.
One is a matter of logistics. The other is a matter of morale. Not only must the greater part of an army of 4,000,000 men be withdrawn from Europe and transported halfway around the globe to the Far East with their weapons, equipment and supplies, but they must be set down on new battlefields ready to fight the Japanese with the same high and steadfast will to victory that made them the conquerors of Germany.

There will be new sacrifices, new and greater. Two Jims and Okinawa. But America dare not falter. For the sake of the dead and the living, it must press forward with all its strength.

Berlin was the largest city ever to fall in war, a distinction she will soon lose to Tokyo.

Included in Mr. Wolf's brief was an outline of the numerous objections to the Trade Agreements as being illegal and unconstitutional—points which have never been passed upon by courts because the Trade Agreements law was designedly written to prevent court appeal or review.

Some of these legal questions go deep into the question of the extent of sovereignty which the American people are to have over their own government.

Mr. Wolf paid his respects in telling fashion to the wave of propaganda which has been spread across the nation by New Dealers, designed to sell the American public the idea that tariffs are war-breeder, free trade the builder of peace, and Uncle Sam the Santa Claus of the world.

"Why the Congress and the American people should be asked to pump life into an undertaking so thoroughly discredited by a fair study of the real facts is hard to understand," he said.

"For years an effort has been made to place a halo around the trade-treaty program so that anyone questioning their sanctity was somehow suspected of being unclean. Nothing but this sanctification can explain the tenacity with which they have clung to a program that by all valid tests is so complete a failure. . . .

"We go before the world hanging our heads in shame for having built a prosperous country; for having achieved a standard of living attained by no other country; and for raising a partial protective barrier against the products of those with a lower standard of living prevailing in other countries."

America's working people can well afford to study the tariff comments made by one of their own representatives.

Our Heavenly Father, who art the Creator of all things, the ope of all who trust in Thee, e pray for all who labor in dustry, in shop, and school, and home. Give to us all a new consciousness of Thy presence every part of life. Awake within us an awareness of our responsibility to all whom we meet each day that we may give due allegiance to Thee through tolerance, sympathy, and respect. Fill our hearts, by Thy grace with love for all people, with understanding of their needs. Bless those who labor for the benefit of mankind; whatever their task may they work as for Thee. Keep our loved ones, wherever they may be, and grant us all strength for each day. We ask it in Jesus' name. Amen.

faculty and the school board, together with their wives and husbands; officials of the Mothers' Association and Fathers' Association of the schools, members of the graduating class, and others.
Assembling in the auditorium which was decked with tulle and artificial flowers, a catered banquet was served, with formal program following. Short talks and music were included, with Henry Black, president of the junior class, extending the greeting, following invocation by the Rev. Robert F. Lang, pastor of Harriman Methodist Church. Marvin Collins, president of the senior class, responded to the words of welcome, voicing appreciation of his classmates at the privilege extended them.
Vocal solos were offered by Miss Claire Bradley and Mrs. Eleanor B. Kozinski, with John C. Burris as piano accompanist. Miss Bradley, a senior, sang "Romance" (Romberg); with Mrs. Kozinski, a member of the faculty, singing "Through the Years" (Youmans) and "Gleanings" (Pratt).
The speakers of the evening were Warren P. Snyder, superintendent of Bristol public schools; and David L. Hertzler, high school principal. They were introduced by the junior class president.
Mr. Snyder expressed regret that as he addressed the seniors and juniors, some of their class-mates were present only in thought. "Some are far away tonight," he commented, as he reminded that these upper classmen are experiencing more real history than they could be taught over a period of time. "Some of your class-mates have been the actual people who are making history." Turning his thoughts to arrogance noted on the part of some Germans as they gave up during recent days, the superintendent was reminded of the ancient Chinese philosopher who taught that there is strength in humility, that "the arrogant will always fall—the humble never." He continued: "Bring the occidental lesson up to the western world and take a strong lesson from the sermon on the mount. 'Blessed are the meek for they shall inherit the earth.' To show that arrogance does not pay we must recall that 'He that liveth by the sword shall perish by the sword.' Hold on to this victory with an humble spirit. You young people cannot afford to be arrogant in victory. Assume the role of humility, and remember those who have gone out from among you."
Mr. Hertzler, the high school principal, in considering the trials of the war period, mentioned the splendid manner in which the high school has met "critical spots." He recalled how certain members of the faculty had assumed additional responsibilities when difficulties arose due to war conditions. He called particular attention to the manner in which boys' "gym" classes and football activities had been carried on by volunteers at times when it was thought such might have to come to an end. "These folks carried these things on because they did not want you young people to miss the opportunities usually enjoyed in the high school," he stated, as he asked that the students be grateful to the staff for the tasks they have added to their usual activities.
The menu consisted of: Fruit cup, olives, celery, roast chicken, filling, mashed potatoes, peas, lettuce with Russian dressing, rolls, butter, ice cream, fancy cakes, coffee, mints, salted nuts.
An orchestra provided music for dancing following the singing of "Alma Mater" by the gathering.
Committees for the banquet were as follows:
General chairman, Florence Paletta; program, Florence Paletta, chairman, Lorraine Yaniro, Lois Hilbert, Anthony Trasatti, Joseph Indelicato; menu, Claire Clements, chairman, Doris Riebel, Rose Scull, Dominick Fields, Jacob Townsend;

SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS BY JOE ELBERSON

In memoriam . . . Senate Bill No. 166, a measure that would have benefited the great majority of Pennsylvania anglers, died a sad death in the House of Representatives at Harrisburg last week.
It was the bill which would have increased the fee for resident fishing licenses from $1.50 to $2.00 and provided for purchase of fishing rights for public use, rebuilding of dams and the study of problems related to better fishing.
The Senate passed the bill as written but when it was reported out of the House committee the bill was re-written as follows: "The sum of fifty cents from each resident fishing license fee, being the increase provided by this amendment, shall be used exclusively for the further propagation and distribution of fish."
In other words, the original purpose of the bill was totally ignored, and it is just as well the House didn't pass it in its amended form.
It means, however, that it will be 1947 before another measure can be introduced . . . two more years in which private clubs and individuals can continue to buy and lease more open fishing water for themselves, at the expense of the vast group of persons who make up Pennsylvania's angling fraternity.
Suggestion: when you find you have no more open fishing water you had better sign up with some private club. It will probably cost you ten or twenty times as much as the proposed 50 cent increase, but you have very little choice in the matter.
You may get shotguns . . . the WPA recently revoked its limitation of shotgun manufacture for use by civilians, but don't expect them at once because materials used in their construction are not as yet available to gun manufacturers.
Encouraging news . . . "there is at present all the indications of a good hunting season ahead next Fall. Rabbits and pheasants have been showing up very well in sections of lower Bucks County, much better, in fact, than during the last several years." This statement was made by Leroy Stackhouse, co-chairman of the Game Committee of the Bucks County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, when he reported to delegates from the 12 clubs present at a meeting in Doylestown on Monday evening.
Delegates also learned from State Fish Warden Harry Cole that the trout season has not been too good so far. Warden Cole blames it on the weather. He said a check on Cook's Creek on opening day revealed that each angler had an average of two trout.
Every body of water in Bucks County has been stocked with adult catfish during the last month, according to the Warden.
Plans are now being arranged for a deluxe meeting of the Federation on June 4th. A representative of the Fish Commission will be on hand with a timely message and some good films, according to present plans. Place of the meeting will be announced at a later date. Delegates are urged to bring as many members as they desire from the individual clubs . . . it will be an open meeting.
The following clubs were represented at the meeting this week: Branch Valley, Bristol, Bucks County, Delaware Valley, Edgely, Langhorne, Middletown, New Hope, Newtown, North Penn, Paletown and Penn Manor.

HULMEVILLE

A dinner party was given Wednesday evening for those who aided in the cafeteria project at Hulmeville-Middletown school this term. The affair was arranged by the cafeteria committee, with dinner at Kugler's, Philadelphia, and a theatre program followed. Those participating: Mrs. N. P. Larson, Mrs. Frank Maret, Mrs. Frank Orlovski, Mrs. Roger S. Burns, Mrs. Herbert Rongley, Mrs. Frank Binder, Mrs. G. A. Japchen, Mrs. Raymond Keen, Mrs. Frank Roger, Mrs. Ned Moyer, Mrs. Louis Goll, Mrs. Arthur Martindell, Mrs. George Zarr, Mrs. Smith, To Mrs. Rongley, Mrs. Burns and Mrs. Goll gifts were presented by the association for work done in the cafeteria.
Guests on Monday of Mrs. Roger S. Burns were Mrs. George Wright and Leonard Wright, of Millville; and Mrs. Wright's sister of Germantown.
Entertained at the home of Mrs. Frank Binder, Bellevue avenue, on Tuesday evening, were the members of her card club.
A few days are being spent by "Bobby" and "Freddie" Haefner, Cornwells Heights, with relatives here.

cussion on the subject "Electronics at Work."
"Everyone has walked to a radio set and tuned in a station that he wanted to hear and everyone has operated an electrical device so I can call all of you electronic engineers," Shermer said.
"The technical information that has been gathered has been the result of years and years of study and research, and we still do not know all about electronics," Shermer continued.
The important part played by the lies on Monday evening. The group included: Mr. and Mrs. William Gerth, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Geiger, Jr., and daughter Mary Ann, Mr. and Mrs. David Johnson, Philadelphia. Refreshments were served.

Visitors over the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Manney were: Miss Catherine Nicoletta, Mrs. Helen Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. George Williams, Philadelphia. Sunday visitors were Mrs. Louis J. Eliades, Mrs. Walter A. Colville, Edgely; Miss Mildred Colville, Bridgewater.

Judge Not Needed To Try War Criminals

define," said the speaker. "You know what it is; you deal in it and you aid in dispensing it. But I doubt that you could define it if asked to do so."
Judge Boyer gave the definition of justice as found in Webster's dictionary. "If you asked some what justice means," the speaker said, "their reply would be 'a square deal,' if you should ask a high school student the reply would perhaps be 'square shooting.'"
He said the elements of justice are "equality," "restoration," "vicarious responsibility" and "retribution."

Then in part he explained that "equality" means equal distribution such as in estates which the court is called upon to settle. "Restoration" is where property is stolen and then that property or its equivalent in value is restored to the owner. Vicarious responsibility fixes equal blame upon those who willingly aid in the commission of a crime yet do not actually commit the crime. They are accomplices in crime.
The public must be protected; an example must be made of the criminal so that others will profit by that example.
Then citing as an example the application of justice as he had outlined, he spoke of bringing to justice the criminals who perpetrated upon civilization the war just ended in Europe.
In the opinion of the judge the people of the United States, the people of Great Britain, and the people of Russia will sit as judges and will pronounce sentence upon Germany. He pleaded that there be not too many technicalities and he said that there is no international law which will answer, "Thou Shalt Not Kill" and "Thou Shalt Not Steal."

There is no need for indictments and technicalities. The Germans should be tried before a court or something like a court. A judge will not be needed but they can be tried by men who know the elementary principles of justice.
Judge Boyer contended that every German was an accomplice in this crime. He said that the German people could not plead that they didn't know what was going on.

He explained how Hitler had taken over the schools and educated the German youths who had committed barbarisms beyond description; and that then he had taken the adults and taught them hatred of the Jews. "Of course the German people knew that their youth was being educated in the manner in which they were and they knew that they themselves were prosecuting the Jews, contended the speaker.
He advocated the execution of all the German generals, all officers of the German Army and all of the leaders of the German people. "After a while," he said, "some will begin to think 'we should forget about this ugly problem,' but if we do we will do ourselves a gross injustice and a gross injustice to our children."

The Police Chiefs Association of Southeastern Pennsylvania has approximately 300 members in the five counties adjacent to Philadelphia. The president is James H. Kelly, lieutenant of detectives of Philadelphia; first vice president, Chief Lawrence Shores, Willow Grove; second vice president, superintendent of police, Elliott Richardson, Swarthmore; secretary, Harry J. Nebinger, chief of Banks Detectives of Philadelphia; treasurer, Carl E. Svenson, captain of guards of Autocar Company.
President Kelly extended greetings and asked that the business session be dispensed, this being done by a unanimous vote. He called upon Anthony Russo, chief detective of Bucks County, to act as master of ceremonies.
Mr. Russo extended appreciation to the host of the evening, George Sotting, and welcomed the guests. He expressed appreciation for the co-operation the various police departments had given to Bucks County authorities, and said that "in order to be successful in police work you must co-operate and receive co-operation from all police departments." He acknowledged the courtesies he had received from the police authorities of various municipalities.
Edward J. Biester, district attorney of Bucks County, introduced Judge Boyer.

Bristol Area Is Rocked By Blast at Hunter Plant

but the glass in the lower sash not damaged. At the residence of Miss Frances Patterson two windows were broken.
In the main office of the Hunter Corp. on Beaver Dam Road, nearly a mile from the scene, a picture was jarred off a ledge and fell into the waste basket.
The blast was felt throughout Bristol and parts of the township, and at points as far distant as Tullytown and Croydon.

EVEN NOW HE'S TIGHTENING HIS HELMET STRAP

• He knows what's ahead . . . a tough, grim, bitter business to be settled through the mists of the Pacific.

He knows more than that.

He knows that we're all behind him . . . that we, too, will tighten our helmet straps.

Blow the whistles? Sure. Strike up the band. Ring the church bells. Thank God for the death of the spider-swastika.

Then finish the job. Do it up brown. For the next major victory is the end of the war.

HERE AT THE TELEPHONE COMPANY, we've had our hands full since Germany fell . . . too full to blow off the steam our emotions generated. Calls came faster and faster. Long distance traffic was heavier and heavier.

Until Japan is beaten, this won't change. Telephone facilities will still be strained. The plants that make equipment for us still make other equipment for war . . . still find the Army and the Navy needing nearly everything that they produce.

This means that the end of Germany is not—can't be—the end of the waiting lists for home and business telephone service . . . not by a Pacific-Oceanful. But everything we get is being applied at once to lessen your waiting time. We don't like to keep anyone waiting for telephone service.
